Safety and efficacy of cardiopulmonary resuscitation using a hand-held resuscitation bag. The aim of this study was to determine the safety and efficacy of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) by nurses using a hand-held resuscitation bag. We conducted a retrospective observational study in a hospital training centre and the intensive care unit. We included all patients who had undergone CPR by a nurse using a hand-held resuscitation bag between June 2010 and August 2012. The oxygen mask ratio and CPR success rate were obtained from the medical database. In total, 363 patients received CPR using a hand-held resuscitation bag. The median age was 71 years (interquartile range 57-84). The CPR success rate was 66.7% (95% confidence interval 61.1 to 72.3). The median oxygen mask ratio was 2.7 (1.7-3.8). The median number of bag uses was 7.5 (4.0-11.5). The CPR success rate was 75% (95% confidence interval 63.1 to 86.2) for CPR during the first 12 h after the cardiac arrest. We observed one case of pneumothorax and no other complications. CPR using a hand-held resuscitation bag was safe and effective for patients with cardiac arrest, and was associated with a high rate of successful CPR after the first 24 h. AT&T secretly collects information on your online activity (2012) - gwern ===== skj I believe it is well known that the following is true: Whenever you make a call (i.e. place a call, receive a call, or initiate/answer/drop a call), your phone line is continuously being monitored by (usually) your phone company (in some cases it's a third-party company such as PalTalk), which will record the call, collect data on your computer, and record your phone line activity. You will not be informed that this is happening nor will the service you are using require you to inform them of your wish to discontinue the monitoring. The data collected will include everything you said, your computer address, and from what position on the phone line the
